Another "Less Work" Invention.

"he Great Western Railway Company are commencing an important experiment. They have decided to instalt, at Snow Hill Station, Hirmingham, Empland, a railway ticker of the model, will render almost superfluous the booklug-clerk, as we know him to-day. If will also do away with the somewhat gumbrous system of storing the thousands of different tickets, which may be called for by the travelling public. The machine is a small and unprefentious-hooking contrivance. It is three feet six inches long, burely two rest broad, and four feet in height. When a ticket to a certain station is required, an indicator, which carries the name of every station upon the system, arranged in alphabetical order, is buched, the clerk slips a blank into a slot in the primiling carriage, a small handle is turned, and a completely printed ilched drops out, ready for use. That is all the work required.

At the same time the ticket is pinced in duplicate upon a continuous strict paper, together with the farc, and all information required for book-teeping. As a result, when the clerk goes off duty, all that he has to do is to total the continuous strip, and to count his cash. The machine is expable of printies 3,000 different tlekets.—British Social Gazette.

The rail was still falling heavily; so, still perched on the box, we began to tell the Gospel story. What a pleture we all made, Packed as tightly together as possible, the men sat on the little versalide, the women got as close as they could to the window bars and the children clambered over the vernadah rail, and everyone listened with rapt attention.

When we at length took our departure, we were thanked most profusely for our jurceince and our words. Laden with flowers, we returned to our Quarters, praying that God would water the seed. He had privileged us to sow for Him amongst the devil-dancers at the milkman's weedding.—India's Cry.

Sacred to Christian Martyrs.

Sacred to Christian Martyrs.

How can one help being moved, when one visits the Catacombs of Rome, where the Christians of the dirst centuries used to meet for their Divine services, and for the entembrane of the arrays who died for the faith! How grand in their simplicity are those tombstones, with Christ's anagram, or the palm which is the sign of martyrtom, or the fish the emblem of Resurrection! And in the very middle of these long and numerous subterranean galleries, one comes across small halls, where fifty or sixty Christian heroes, at the most, could meet and pray in secret and in some decree of safety.

Here is also the anclent Via Appla, trodden by St. Paul when he entered the City of Rome; and here the grand colosseum, which could hold sold street thousand slaves, who were given their freedom after having achieved their buge task. In this immense building one finds everywhere the records of the thousands of Christian marryrs who have suchiced their lives for their faith here is the gate by which the wild beasts entered the place where the misches of Christ awaited death for tills sake; here is the spat where Nero used to sit and satiate finisel?

WORK OF THE ARMY IN THE MAHRATTA COUNTR'

Characteristics of the True Missionary.

IGHTEEN hours' journey brings us into the Mahratta country, and to our Headquarters at Ahmednagar.

Colonel Sukh Singh, who pioneered the work in this district, had no easy time of it. He packed a pony with rugs and cooking utensils, and he and his helpers trudged by its side for a month, begging or buying food en rout e, cooking by the readside, sleeping under trees, talk, talking to everybody they met. Many and varied were the hardships and troubles they, in common with all other missionaries, were called upon to face; but the man who elects foreign Officership must be willing to face a thousand things he does not like. Fatigue, loneliness, sufferings of many sorts will be his, and that which is most repulsive and disgusting must be met cheertully, or, he falls utterly of his purpose. The martyr spirit which shows how much he is enduring, and how beautifully he is doing it, is quite out of place in one who is suffering for Jesus' sake.

A Woman-Officer's Trial.

Many of the neonle mentioned in this little book are not at all nice ways-some are positively unclean; but they must be loved by the man who would fain win them to the Saviour. Nothing less will Numberless messengers of Christianity experience great disappointnearmeriess messengers of Caristanity experience great disappoint-ment when they find that all their sacrifices are quite unappreciated by the people for whom they have made them. They forget that the native's point of view is wholly different from their own. It is partly for this very reason that the Mahratta is hard to will, as one instance will show.

A woman-Officer stationed in a certain village, tolled for a long time with absolutely no result. The people avoided her, and looked upon her residence amongst them with suspicion,

Cholera broke out. She had proper medicines, nursed everybody she could reach, prayed much over them, and saved many lives. Notwithstanding this, they asked the same old question:—
"Have you a mother?—a father?—a home?. Ah, but you could not have loved them much to leave them and come here!"

Sick at heart, after curing the last patient, she went off to visit a neighbouring village, where also cholera had broken out. While she was away, the monsoon came, and It rained and flooded, as it only can do in India's "rainy season."

Qualifications for the Work.

On her return she sought her hut, but found it flooded and empty of all the possessed. She was turning away in silent sadness, when she found many eyes were watching her. Two or three natives came forward

"Come to the dharmsala," they cried; and, leading the way, they showed all her possessions stored in a corner and shielded by a sari

"This is because you loved us-you loved us," they said. "Now we understand, and we are ready to hear whatever you like to rell about your Jeens."

The Officer needed for India must be strong in action, but genial In manner. He must have parted for Christ's sake, with that self-asser-tion and bumptiousness which is so often in evidence in an Englishman as to have become a national characteristic. He must uphold with this of righteousness, he a man of his word, and of irreproachable honour in small things as well as great. He must also possess true sympartly and boundless nationce, and must walk hourly with the Christ of the maritude. To the man who will give bluself to the people, who will reste them in true brotherliness of spirit, there comes the sure reward c: their love, and through this, a magnificent opportunity of showing Jesus Christ to men.

"What are These Among So Many?"

European Influence and education are as necessary to success as the hative clement. Neither class of Officer can perform the work in band without the other's aid. Yet, during the first year or two in India, the English Officer is somewhat of a trial to his comrades, being too apt to measure new conditions by old standards, and to insist on applying old rules to a condition of things which he has yet to comprehend. The candidate for work in India, must go out recognising this drawback on his own part, and willing to learn anything which will show him how be useful. Let him make up his mind, before stepping on board ship, that the experience of those who have gone before him has cost them inuch, and that he, himself, must either borrow of them, or buy at a

How tramendous is the need for those who will submit to be thus taught, can only be fairly gauged within the country liself. Words are wholly inadequate wherewith to apfor brains and hearts conseerated for this service. When one lays down the number of Muktifani

Officers (1,510) side by side by side with that of the population (000,on0.000), one may well exclaim, "What are these among to many?" the power of one divinely fire-touched life, who can tell?

If all Salvationists received the heavenly vision as did one Mah-ratta Cadet, one would not need to beg and beg for volunteers for

A Mahratta Cadet's Conversion.

He was a heathen convert of middle age. He had intelligently given th his old religion, and earnestly asked to be accepted, that he might publish the Gospel message, for he loved his Bible. But the passion of Calvary had never entered his soul; he did not know Jesus Christ and Him crucified.

His leaders watched over and prayed for him. One evening they gave the Cadets a lantern service on "The Life of Christ." This Mahratta sat as one newly taught a marvel, as each scene came upon the He had evidently had no real idea of the Saviour, whom he had clected to serve. At last came the scene upon the cross, and his heart broke. Still be sat silently gazing, though the tears rolled down his cheeks to the floor.

A prayer meeting followed, and, sinking to his knees, the Mahratta began to talk to his Lord in a voice fairly quivering with emotion.
"Dear Jesus," he cried, brokenly, "I did not understand until saw the picture, how much Thou lovedst me. To think that Thou didst suffer this for me—for my sins—me, a poor, ignorant idolater! Forgive me for not understanding Thee till now! Blot out my sin! Help me to be a true disciple of Thine from henceforth."

Cosmopolitan Throngs.

A strange awe rested upon the meeting. Every heart felt under deep weight of love, too wonderful for anything but silence and lears.

That Mahratta was baptised into the spirit of the Cross. He went forth into the Field able to show others the Christ be bad himself seen.

Twelve hours' journey brings us to the truly cosmopolitan City of Bombay. We stand upon the balcopy of our Headquarters, and look down upon such a panorama as it will be difficult ever to forget. There go half the races of the world! Europeans, Arabs, Persians, Afghans, Malays, Cingalese, Chinese, Turks, Jews, Hindus, and Mohammedans, while here the Parsee is at home. All shades of colour, all types of nationality, all varieties of religion olbow each other upon the streets of this, one of the finest cities in the world. One grapme writer has thus described it:-

"Rombay haugs like an Oriental car-jewel across the sea-mouth of this bowl of bare bills filled with green water.

Ver it is but a day or two that we can devote to the spectacie afforded by this divers-hued, many-nationed throng. Being so near to Poona, we make the opportunity serve for a visit to its Military Home round, we make the opportunity serve for a vert to its similarly Home and Corps, which are doing a fine work amongst Service men. We should like to linger awhile in the Officers' Home of Rest, but must get back to Bombay, to start upon our last railway journey in this wonderful continent, which is to take us right across the country from the "Gare of India" to the White City at the month of the Hugh, which we left but a few weeks ago.

The Chatham Band made a bighit at Bienheim, (says a district paper.)

"The Band, a musical organisation of twenty-eight pieces, took our fair town, yesterday, by storm. The Mountain City capitulated at once on hearing the silving strains of their fine instruments, as they marched up town on Saturday night, giving our people a musical treat seldom heard outside the larger cities. Chatham has every reason to feel proud of their S. A. A record-breaking week-end was recently experienced an Berlin, when the Field Secretary and Lieut-Col. onel Turner, accompanied by Major and Mrs. Green, visited the Corps, and gondacted a stirring series of meetings. The crowds were excellent, the finances good, the openairs well attended, and on the whole, a very successful time was experienced.

The visitors arrived on Saturday night, and after a good open-air, proceeded to the Hall, where an expectant crowd was awaiting them. Major and Mrs. Green rendered Major and Mrs. Green rendered good service during the week-end; both singing with good effect, and rendering valuable aid in the grayer meetings.

Lieut-Colonel Turner gave some good talks in the open-airs. His address on Sunday afternoon on "As a man thinketh, so is he," was especially notable.

The Field Secretary spoke effectively, both Snuday morning and night. Two soults salvation in the morning—a man and wife—and both came along to all the subsequent meetings and testified. Two men also came forward at night, and afterwards returned to give God the glory.

In the afternoon, a number of Officers spoke on various subjects, as follows: Lleut-Colonel Starb, "Difficulty;" Lleut-Colonel Turner, "Improvement;" Brigadler Potter, "Compensation;" Major Green, "Opportunity."

After the Council, everyone repaired to the Baptist Sunday School, where a repust was awalting them. They were joined by the Local Officers of the Corps, and quite a happy time was spent.

After tea, the Field Secretary spoke on such subjects as open-alr work, how to secure and hold a congregation, sout-saving, Corps Finanches, etc. This was followed by an open-air meeting.

The inside meeting was presided over by Dr. Housburger, who warmly enlogised the work of The Army. Meut-Colonol Turner and Brigadier Potter each gave addresses; the Field Secretary concluding with a powerful talk on the Gospel of Christ. The large congregation was delighted, and thus closed one of the most eventful and memorable weekends Herlin has yet experienced.

Colonel Emerson, who holds the responsible position of General Secretary for Great Britain. This is the Colonel's first visit to Canada, and he is greatly impressed with the wastness of the country and the general air of youthfulness and vigour observable in its inhabitants. He came over on the "Empress of Britain," in charge of a party of 180 immigrants. The voyage was a very stormy one, and everybody was glad to reach St. John in safety.

To an interviewer, the Colonel gave a few blographical facts, which will doubtless prove of interest to our readers.

He is a native of the County of Cumberland, and is able to trace his ancestry back to 1250—Archdeacon Emerick being the Abraham of his race. A more modern and more famous ancestor was the American philosopher and poet, Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The Colonel's father was a Method ist for sixty-six years. His mother is still allvo and hearty at the age of eighty-seven.

In 1882 the family moved to Darlington, and there the present Coloutel met with 'The Salvatlon Army. A wonderful revival had broken out a short time previously, some 1,600 people getting converted, and several saloons and a theatre having to close up as a result. The Army Hall. which would accommodate 2,500 people, was filled every sight. Young Emerson was seen numbered asso The Army captures, and he became an enthusiastic Soldier. When a Band was organised, he was asked to hecome Bandmisster, and so he had the distinction of receiving the very first Bandmaster's Commission given in The Salvation Army. In 1883 he went to the Training Home, and upon completing his course of Training. was sent to Belfast in charge of a Corps. The town was in an excited state over the advent of The Army. and for six weeks the Officers could not hold a moeting owing to the disturbances. At last Captain Esperson was "run in" for street preaching, but the magistrate dismissed the This turned the tide in The Army's favour, and after test crowds slocked to the Hall, excellent order prevalled, and 542 converts were made in four and a half months. Ills next Corps was Grantham. Serious rioting had also taken place here. The public was zuzpicious of The Army, and the police had to march by the side of the quentair processions to prevent the Officers being mobbed. Cautain Emerson thought it the best plan to be perfectly open with the people, and so he left the Corps books in the Hall ready for critical inspection at any time by all who wished to enquire into the matters of finance. The plan worked like a charm, and gradually the public confidence was restored, and a good work was carried on during the rest of his term.

In the year 1886 he took charge of Hull Icehouse, the largest Corps in Great Billein. Over 550 names were on the Soldiers' Roll and it was a common sight to see five hundred ou the march, with two Bandz-one in front and one in the rear. After nine months and a haif of successful work at this Corps, he was promoted to Staff-Captain, and appointed as Divisional Officer for the East Riding of Yorkshire. He had nine Divisional in all. Then he was made a Provincial Officer, and took charge of the Eastern Counties of England.

Appointments as Provincial Secretary to the Bristol Province, and then the North London Province followed. He then became Caudidates' Secretary, and then the Provincial Officer for the Northern Province of England, after which he was appointed to his present position of General Secretary.

In 1889 he married Captain Silver-

"Pray Without Ceasing."

BY THE GENERAL.

Y subject is based upon the command of the Apostle Paul, when he says in the First Epistle to the Thessathe First fifth chapter and the 17th verse, "Pray without ceasing." We are thought to be a praying people, and I trust we are. Salvationists to pray.

We pray in our Halls. Many of our sough are prayers, as are also the majority of our most effective choruses. Who is there amongst us that has not felt agalu and again. that a cry has gone up to Heaven, and reached the heart of God, when we have sunk, "Pour Thy Spirit," or "Draw me nearer," or "Bless me "Draw me nearer," or "Bless me now?" Those are, Indeed, mighty pravers.

How Victories Are Wrought.

We pray in the public-houses, in the open parks, in the haunts of sluand by the bedside of the sick and dylng. I do not think there is any more pleasing sight to God and the angels-I am sure there is not in the eyes of The General-than to see a group of Salvationists in the streets or in some dark slum, kneeling in the road, crying to Heaven for the salvation of the hardened crowd living pround.

I think, further, that, when we pray, we offer reul prayer. We despise mere form, and unless the utterings come from the heart there count them and then, we do not count them prayer at all. We plty people who slt down and read intellectual essays or other a number of cold sentences from memory about God and religion, and then call such efforts uraver. We believe that the offering of effectual prayer, the prayer that reaches the throne and heart of God, bas played an important part in bringing about the victories of The Army in days gone by. Our prayers have been answered in the conversion of some of the biggest sinners, the most hardened backsliders, and the proudest and haughtlest have ever bent their knees at the heavenly altar.

And yet we believe that many of our prayers, and perhaps the most darling and God-pleasing that have ever been offered, have yet to be answered.

Where We Come Short.

But, after all, I am afraid that our prayer is wanting. To begin with, I feel we do not pray sufficiently. The quality of, at least a great deal of our praying is excellent, beautiful in the extreme, the joy of my soul; but there is not enough of it. We ought to pray more frequently, and continuously. Indeed. more continuously. Indeed, the Apostle is not wrong when he tells us to "pray without ceasing."

But the question may be asked. "How far is it possible to comply with this command?"

Well, I do not think Paul Intended it to be literally obeyed. It would be impossible to be ever either in the mental or physical attitude of prayer, on our knees or on our faces. The Salvationist causet be unceasingingly occupied in volcing his petitions before the Throne.

His daily labour makes this impossible. As the Apostic says, he must provide things bonest in the sight of all men, and supply the needs of his family. If he does not do this, he will be counted an infidel, and one who fails in his dury to a dying world.

But if Paul does not mean this, what did he mean? Well, I think he meant, in the first place, that it is our duty to be always in that spirit of communion with God which makes prayer possible at any moment,

He must have also meant that when the time comes round for the discharge of the duty of prayer in public, we should see to it that real prayer is offered.

The Aposile may, further, have had the duty of ejaculatory prayer in mlnd. This sending frequent and frequent actitions to Heaven, as so many arrows shot from the a hurdened heart, has ever been the practice of devoted saints.

This custom answers many useful purposes, such as the prevention of murmuring and depression in midst of discouragement and trials, and the drawing of inspiration from the skies for devotion and sacrifice. ip me!" and "Saviour, my Comrades!" "Holy "Lord, belp me!" and strengthen Spirit, send us a blessing!" and similar cries have often proved very useful.

Again, to pray without ceasing must involve perseverance in our regular private devotions. Temptation to dispense with the times and scasons set for ordinary prayer often crosses the nath of busy Salvationists. The plausible suggestion comes to the heart of the man who hears the call of some important duties ringing in his ears, that private prayer can be postponed or disnessed with.

At such times the old saying may ic useful, "Prayer or provender himders no man." As to the provender, I make no observations; but prayer must ever be useful.

"Instant in Season."

This command must also mean that we should pray on every reasonable occasion, with every one with whom we have the opportunity. not be distressed by the fear that prayer with strangers will be thought to be importinent. I have prayed with many people to whom it might have been thought disagrecable, but not remember a single occasion when it was objected to.

During my Campaign in Japan, I was visiting a nobleman who is supposed to be one of the most prominent Hierary personages in the Empire, if not the very first of that A number of literary friends were gathered around him in auticipation of my visit. Before leaving, on the spur of the moment. I proposed prayer, and before there was time for objection. I was on my knees, as is my custom. I learned afterwards that he had no leanings whatever to Christianity, but, on the contrary, was a prefty strong Agreestic; but I beard also that that prayer moved all hearts present, and left a very gracious and useful infinence belied it.

He sure you commence all your special work with prayer. A few moments before the open-air or the public meeting or any extraordinary effort cannot but be useful.

Passion and Perseverance

Do not be hindered by the comment notion that prayer is unnecessary where there is a believing heart

Strive after more faith in your prayer all the time. Desire is good. Oh, for more earnest, beseeching. agonising crying after God! Perseverance is good. Jesus taught us the supreme value of importunity in that inimitable incident of the poor widow and the unjust judge. Dat with all these things we want more of that bold, determined faith fear believes and receives the thing for which it asks.

Paul certainly knew the power of habit, and that the more we pray the more we want to pray, the more we can pray, and the more we skall pray. I join with the Apostle in eatreating you to "Pray without ceas-

SOLDIERSHIP.

The stage that the Revival Crusade has now reached, is that of Soldlermaking-that is, the enrolling under the Blood and Fire Plag of The Salvation Army, those who have recently given God their hearts, and have become disciples of Jesus Christ. On our front page is indicated some of the advantages that may be derived teing a uniformed Soldier of The Salvation Army,

To be a Soldier means, of course. to be a militant, aggressive follower of Christ, one who is ever intent on driving back the foes of man and God, intent on making the wold better and on glorifying our Lord. That is, no doubt, the apostolic idea of a follower of Christ, one who is clad in the whole armour of God.

Now, there is no doubt whatever, that union is strength, and for one to be enrolled as a member of a Corps of red-hot Salvationists, must be a source of strength to him or her; while the examples of good done by the wearing of the uniform. are too numerous to be mentioned. They are, however, ohvlous, and we that our comrades will not hesitate to become Soldiers in an Army, that more than any other religious organisation in the world, affords opportunities for winning souls for Christ. The open-air, from the time that Christ preached to the multitudes on the seashore and the mountainside, has ever been the mountainside, has ever been the battle-ground of the aggressive Christian. What other organisation affords the man for whom the Lord has done great things, such opportunities to testify to that fact, as does The Salvation Army; or what other organisation affords its members such opportunities for the cultivation of musical talents, and the the same, as does The Army in its Hands? We often say there's a place in The Army for all-meaning that there is opportunity for the everelse of every useful talent in The Army. That being the case, become a Soldier!

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC MEETING IN THE MASSEY HALL.

A FORECAST.

IIAT stupendous eventthe redemption of mankind-will be celebrated by a service held in the Massey Hall, on Good

Friday morning. This service promises to be of a most interesting and impressive character. It is describ-ed as a Great Symbolic Service, and object is to adore the Christ who broke the iron gates of death, and tore asunder the barriers of the grave; to learn lessons from the life of Hilm, who, on Calvary's Height became the Victor of the World, and make a covenant of loyalty to our Lord and to the principles of the Previous to the service, The Salva-tion troops of the city, will parade in review order before the Commissloner and Mrs. Coombs. The troops will assemble at the Temple, at 9.45 a.m. There will be, approximately, a thousand Soldlers, ten Bands, and numerous banners. "Terrible as an Army of banners." The procession will leave the vicinity Temple in three sections, but will unite, and march in one long column, along the down-town route, arriving the Massey Hall, about a quarter to eleven.

The procession will be under the direction of Colonel Gaskin, who will be the Chief Marshall. Officers, Soldlers, and Bundsmen, in order to ensure the success of the parade, should follow out minutely, the instructions that may be issued -000

The first part of the Massey Hall service will be in the nature of praise and adoration to our risen and exalted Saviour, and, by means prayer, music, and song, symbolism and lantern pictures, it is bound that Toronto Salvationists will have an opportunity of magnifying their Redeemer in a manner that has seldom been their privilege. This op-portunity will be open to the general public, for there is a hearty invitation to all.

The meeting has been designed to be a mighty stimulus to spiritual life and effort, and after we have edored and extelled the Victor of Calvary, then will be considered the causes that gave Him the victory over Death and Hell, when the Con missioner, by means of speech and pictures, will describe the most striking scenes in the life of our Lord, and the great lessons that underlie them.

One of the most interesting events of the service, will be the making of the covenant with our Lord, in which those present will pledge themselves to greater fidelity and devotion to the cause of Christ and the salvation of the world. This will afford an opportunity for the renewing of their consecration vows under very inspiring circumstances, on the part of Christ's followers of all denominations. And all such are heartily invited to be present.

From the standpoint of human interest, there will be a great deal to appeal to all sorts and conditions of n: the grand, rolling music of 259 skilled Bandsmen: the singing of the vast audience; the striking fantern pictures—many of which will be new, and of great beauty-together with the colour and tableaux, which will be introduced into the service will make it of great splendour and Impressiveness

The service will commence at 11 a.m., but those who desire to be present should get there early.

On Good Friday evelung there will be a great hollness meeting held in the Temple, at which all the city Corps will unite. This meeting will be conducted by the Commissioner, who will be assisted by the Chief Secretary and the Headquarters'

In Toronto, a week's special eampalgn has been arranged, in which the whole of T. H. Q. Staff will take part. The reports of the first weekend engagements are to hand, and, on the whole are most gratifying.

At the Tomple the Chief Secretary and Mrs. Mapp led on, and 35 souls wore registered on Sunday. A great Soldiers' rally was held on Saturday night, at which the Colonel explained his plans for the week's campaigu. and aroused the expectations of all for a good time. There was a good crowd, and an excellent spirit pre-valled. The meeting concluded with a general consecration. On Sunday. a good crowd gathered at the boilness meeting. The Colonel gave a powerful address, and at the close eleven souls knelt at the mercy-seat.

Adjutant Kendall spoke in the afternoon, and two more souls came

'At night Capt, and Mrs. Hanagan sang a duet, and Mrs. Hanagan gave a short address. Major Findlay also After a well-fought brayer meeting, twenty-two souls knelt at the mercy-seat.

The Band and Songsters rendered excellent service throughout the day fact, every section of the Corps united to make the meetings the success they were. The Colonel was very pleased with the way the Soldlers co-operated with him in the carrying out of his plans. It is evident that Adjutant and Mrs. Kendall had worked hard in preparing for the Campaign and getting everyone in the right spirit for it.

On Monday another great time On Monday another great time-was experienced. After a rousing copen-air, a bright and interesting sorvice was held in the Hall, as which-Band-Sergeant Nicol sang, and the Band and Songsters rendered vocal and instrumental music. Mrs. Colonel Mapp read the Seriptures, and Mrs. Adjutant Kendali and Brigndier Moreben each spoke. Ten gouls came forward.

It has been arranged that each night during the Campaign, a special prayer meeting shall be beld in the Hall for fifteen minutes preceeding the public meeting.

At Lippincott Street, Lieut-Colonel and Mrs. Turner were the leaders. The Colonel gave a number of spiendid addresses, during the week-end, and three souls came to the mercyseat. He was ably assisted by Staff-Captain and Mrs. Fraser and Staff-Captain and Mrs. White. Staff-Capt. White gave an address on Sunday afternoon, and Mrs. Fraser spoke on Sunday night,

At East Toronto, Major and Mrs. Phillips had a nice time, with good crowds and one soul. They were assisted by Captain Watkinson.

At Rhodes Avenue, Brigadier and Mrs. Potter were in charge. A bright meeting was held on Saturday pight. On Sunday morning the Brigadier gave a forcible address.

Major Attwell ably handled his subject, "A Man Missing," on Sunday afternoon. At night the Brigadier spoke on "Remember." On Monday night Mrs. Major Attwell gave an address on "A Great Redemption." The total penitent form results so far, are three Juniors and two adults.

At Parliament St., Caplain Lewis led on, in the absence of Major Cameron, who was too ill to be present. Two souls came forward on Saturday nielu.

At Wychwood, Major and Mrs. Miller had an excellent week-end. This is a young Corps, and the thirteen converts were all Young People. On Salurday night the Band was out in full strength, ready to render all the service possible, Major and Mrs. Miller, Major Turpin, and Cantain Murdoch all teck part in the meeting, by giving addresses. Halifax H.—A number of comrades from the Corps have been visiting the Prison at Rockhead, and the County Jall, and God has honoured their labours, for to-day, while at the Rockhead Prison, six men and two women held up their hands for We prayed with them, and they believed that God had answered their prayers.

One dear old fellow, over seventy years of age, gave testimony to the power of God to save from sin. He enjoys the service, and is auxious to hear more about God.

A coloured-woman has been converted, and the matron, Mrs. Murray, says that there has been a great change in her; also in the very work that she does around the prison.

Three Enrolled and Five Seekers.

Ottawa 1.-Our Corps was favoured by a week-end visit from Staff. Captain Bloss. The free-and-easy meeting was especially marked by the enrollment of three converts as Salvation Soldiers.

Then the Staff-Captain said he had a most pleasing duty to perform, namely, the introduction of the new Junior Sergt.-Major, Brother Davey, who said, in his remarks, that thre notable events had transpired in the Capital during the week, inasmuch as three new 'heads' had been appointed; the new Chief of Police, the new Fire Chief, and last, but not least, the new Junior Sergt Major.

strive to bring one or more strangers to the meeting, and to lead one soul to Christ—that it was a Soldiers' battle for souls. Each of the rein-forcements spoke of their appreciation of the privilege to assist the Toronto I. Soldiers in this Campaign.

On Sunday line crowds were present all day, and very powerful meetings were held, all the Specials doing their part in a highly creditable manner. The results were two for sanctification in the morning and two at night for salvation, Special topics had been advertised for the week night meetings. On Monday night the Editor spoke on the "Rounae of Soul-Saving," the incidents being illustrated by the War Cry Artist. Adjutant Sims read the Scriptures, and pulled in the net. A splendid congregation was present, and three souls came to Christ.

On Tuesday, Adjutant Sims spoke in "Queer Lodgers," and Captain. Bradley read the lesson. There was again a very fine audience, a splendid feeling, and nine at the mercy-seat. The tide of revival is plainly, rising at Toronto I.

At Lisgar Street, Lieut-Col. aud Mrs. Howell held the fort. On Sat-urday night a goodly crowd wel-comed the Specials. The Band was out in full force. Plans for the week's Campaign were set forth, and received with great enthusiasm. The meetings of Sunday were a means of blessing to Soldiers and sinners alike. Adjutant Debow's seles were appreciated. Mrs. Col. Howell's address at night was full of convicting power, but no souls were recorded at the merey-seat.

Before the limish of the opening song, a poor drunkard came and knell at the mercy seat.

On Sunday, good crowds were-present at all the meetings. Adjut-ant Young led the morning and afternoon testimony meetings; Cap-tain Dodd solved in the morning mecting.

Brigadier Potter conducted the dedication service of Brother and Sister Leggatt's little one in the afternoon.

At night the Major's address on the influence of good or bad "row-ers" on board our vessel, as it goes ever the sea of time to eternity, made a great impression on the people. One young man sough: par-patented for extracting no less than five valuable products from wool fat, which are employed as bases for ointments and cosmetics, leather dressings and fibre lubricants. The fat removed amounts to about fifteen per cent. of the wool treated, which, at the minimum price of three cents a pound, means forty-five cents on every hundred pounds of wool "deuvery hundred pounds of wool "de-greased." to use the technical ex-pression. If to this is added the carbonate of potash recovered from the finising waters, which averages twenty-five cents for every bundred pounds, we have seventy cents as the minimum value of the hyperoducts are nowed from overy hundred pounds of raw wool. Before the solvent process of wool degreasing was in-troduced, it is continuous that be-tween two and three militon dollars' worth of wool fat and potash were annually wasted in the United States.

This well-nigh complete exhausmade.

This well-nigh complete exhausmade of a wooilen tabric's possibilities finds its counterpart in almost every other terrile industry. The working up of waste fibers has been so perfected that very little of the raw material is now thrown away. In the silk manufacturer's lexicon, for example, there is no such word as waste; probably, because of the rise in price of raw silks. Many years ago, the outside and inside inches of cocoons were mere refuse. Now they are bought and sold as more or less valuable raw material. Japan and China export large quantities of moth-pierced cocoons, husks, known as knubs, and curlies, winder's waste and China export large quantities of moth-pierced cocoons, husks, known as knubs, and curlies, winder's waste and floss silk. When we consider what excellent ribbons, veivets and plushes are now made from short fibers and wastes, it seems almost almost incredible that at one time pieces of raw China silk, otherwise unavailable, were actually used for wiping the machinery of a throwing mill.

The same story could be told of cotton. Nearly all cotton rage, as well as linen rags, if they are sufficiently long of staple, are respun. Although much cotton wasts flinds its way to the paper-maker, the time is not far distant, when, like flock and shoddy, even short cotton fibers will be worked over again for textiles. As it is, the waste of cotton mills is employed for the making of batting and wadding, and of carpet linings. About a million dollars worth of what otherwise would be wasted, is thus annually utilised. An industry may produce so much waste that from sheer necessity

Every aswall produces an amount of sawdust which must be disposed of in some way, if his porto be piled up in a huge hill, a prey to spontaneous combustion. There are not enough delis to stuff into life-like rotundity with it, as prey to spontaneous combustion. There prongs bar-room floors to sprinkle with it. The most obvious methods, it failed when first tried, because of the difficulty of barning powder-like combustibles. Laterly, however, sawdust has been moulded into briquettes, and special forms of furnaces have been devised which into briquettes, and special forms of furnaces have been devised which render it possible to burn it instead of coal, under a boller. Attempts have also been made to generate gas for power from sawdust, with more or less success. Extremely profitable are those industries in which sawdust shavings and other wood for power from sawdust, with more or less success. Extremely profitable are those industries in which sawdust, shavings and other work or less worked up just as if they were us plastic as cisy—an end rendered possible by the invention of mixing and kneading machines, moulds and presses. Artinent wood, which looks for all the world like what it is not, is made from hydraulically-pressed sawdust, held together by glue-water and soluble glass, or blood and potassium blehromate. The chemist, too, has turned wood wastes to profitable account. One of bis recent achievements is the discovery of a nethod of converting certain ingredients of sawdost into wood atcohol. Furthermore, the production of acetic acid, wood naphtha, oxaic acid and tar from sawdast is a comparatively recent enterprise. The sawdust from birch and some other species of trees yields a paltable sugar after chemical treatment. Artificial vanilla extractment. Artificial vanilla extractment according to be resarded as much a chemical product of wood waste are herwise, discovered in conderes a new principle, which he christened 'confierin' from which artificial vanilla is obtained in the form of a white, erystalline powder. Other forms of wood waste are transformed into viscose, and then into artificial stilk of which, about five tons a day is made in Europe. The demand far acceeds the supply. According to Professor Robert Kennedy Duncan, a pine tree is worth about ten dollars; which, turned into viscose and spun into silk, is worth fifty five dollars; bleached, it is worth fifty five dollars; bleached, it is worth fifty five dollars; bleached, it is worth fifty five dollars; which, turned into viscose may be resarded as a gold mine, the full value of which me man estimate for our knowledge of its chemistry is lamentably scant.

DOWN IN THE ABYSS.

HEN we arrived at the house in which Mrs.

B— lived, the door was opened by a child with dirty face and hands, but with a superb head of well-combed, red-golden curis. Out-side the two rooms in which the family lived, we stumbicd over a miscelleneous heap, comprising washstand, tin pall, and a couple of sauce-pans. These represented the family bathing-place, laundry, and scullery.

Dirt and Good Temper.

Mrs. B—, carrying the boy twin in her arms, greeted us, as we entered the dirty, small, overcrowded room. Dingy clothing hung from the bedposis, door-handles, and from every available nail, absorbing what little air we brought in with us, with the greedless of blotting-paper. Mrs. B— was extremely untidy.

muddle: the haby's been a handful, and she's fair wore out."

As we went downstalrs, the Captain said: "There's an improvement already. Did you notice how clean and well-groomed the children's hair was? Yes, I know the room was in a mess, but we must have patience. It takes longer than three menths to overcome the habits of years. But Mr. B— has ideals of his own, and now that he is in work be can begin to hope for better things. It's something, too, that both are steadily keeping from drink. Next week I shall bring a couple of Cadets down, and between us we shall make that untidy place look splendid, soap and water, hlacklead, and a will, accomplish wonders. And when Mrs. B— sees her home nice and straight, she will hearten up, and perhaps try to keep it so."

"But, suppose she doesn't, and lets it all get into a muddle again?"

"Well, then, well clean it up again, and yet again, and again, until at lenth, for very shame's sake,

Occasionally she gets an odd job at cleaning, sewing or washing. "One way and another, we make things meet very comfortably. Compared to heaps of poor things round about 'ere, we live in clover."

What was the history of this woman? It seemed impossible to beneath the could possibly have been, at any time, other than self-respecting, sober, and decent. Nevertheless, i iterat, to my unbounded astonishment, that some years previously she had been "one of the worst of the worst," as the Captain said.

By what secret process do The Salvation Army contrive to win the confidence and the love of even the most degraded of human beings? I put the question to our guide.

"I don't know," Capitain replied, reflectively, "unless it is that we have trust in them, and that they know that we love them too."

The Army's Creed.

The Army's Creed.

Many more things we saw that day, indisputable proofs of the farreaching effects that the simple creed of love and confidence has besotten. Such noble institutions as the Maternity Home—where unmarried mothers, mostly young girls, are comforted and tended during the hour of trial, and sent out into the world again, conscious of a heiping hand that will never fail them in the direct distress—deserve more than passing mention. The Salvation Army seem, indeed, to undertake all the real work of Social reform which appears to be so far beneath the notice of Parliaments, Lamcipal Authorities, and Poor Law Tuardians.

Major Hay Looks Back Twenty-Five Years.

(From the Orillia "News-Letter.")

(From the Orillia 'News-Letter.')

The local Salvation Army Citadet was filled to its capacity on Thursday evening, on the occasion of a special meeting held to celebrate the tweaty-fifth anniversary of the enrollment of Major Hay, Divisional Superintendent, as a member of The Army. The local Officers, Captain and Mrs. Welr had worked Indefatigably to mark the occasion with a successful demonstration, and in this they were loyally aided by the members of the Orillia Corps.

Letters and telegrams of congratulation from Cobait, Haileybury, and other points throughout the Division, were read during the evening. The Band of the local Corps furtished excellent music throughout the evening, and fully merit the encombums passed upon their skill as musiciant by the townspeople generally.

Aside from the addresses of Major Hay and his estimable wife, there was a whole host in himself—Adjutant Habkirk, of Toronto, whose versatifity made him equally at home with the banjo, dakimer and other instruments, but his lost randition—his chief piece—was that played upon the organ chimes, which thrilled and delighted the large audi-onc, who were by no means charg, in bestowing applause.

Mrs. Hay gave a short address, in which she referred to her husband's experience in various branches of the Dominion.

Major Hay was given an ovation when he rose to address the large andience. His retrespect of the last twenty-five years was intensely intercediac, and was flavoured by a causite fravour that hep this easier or always on the organ vive. the following interesting particulars: the was born in Caunington, forty years ago; converted in S. A. on February 5, 1885. Went out as an Officer on March 2, 1887. His first station being Cuidwater. He has filled, in all, thirty-six appointments since that time. He was in charge of the Orillin Corps for six months, Fourteen years ago. His work has taken him to many towns throughout the Province, Montreal, the North-west, Pacific Const and Montana, during most of which time let has either had charge of a Division, or was engaged in apecial relief work in the large cities. He had never regretted the step he had taken in easting in his lof with The Army, and prophesied a great future for that sasting in his lot with The Army, and prophesied a great future for that organisation. And indeed, to hear some of the experiences through which he has passed, and the almost miraculous conversions to which he alluded, there was much to inspire his auditors with a belief that the apostolic days are not a thing of the past, and that The Army has yet a busy future before it, in reclaiming fallen humanity, and setting their feet upon the straight and narrow path that leadeth unto eternal sife.

Indiscriminate Charity.

The evils of indiscriminate charity

The cylls of indiscriminate charity were strikingly illustrated in New York recently, when Big Tim Sullivan, the Tammany district loss, decided to present everyone who came slong on a certain day, with a new pair of boots and socias,

There were many touching seenes, the papers say, at the Sullivan headquarters, as the long line limped up to receive brand new shoes and heavy gray socias for nothing. A more seasonable gift could not occur to the mind of a benevolent and crateful politician, who owed his nower, wendth and prosperity to the denizons of his modern American sendality.

power, wenter and prosperity to the decizions of his modern American feedidity.
Curfous to rolale, the second-hand decica, next day after the distribution, had a thundant stocks of shoes that had only been worn once or twee. The decires would not tell why so many people were dispositive of their shoes, which, stronge to say, were all of the same make and by the same make. They were limited in their stocks of shoes, with the ostribution of the day before. The sufficient had made everyone likely to dispose of his present awar the shoes when leaving.

It was also discovered noxt day that there had been a quielly conducted traffic in tickets. The original tickets were supposed to be good for one day only, but it was amounced that those mable to be lined then, could get their shoes here. In the saleous that high, theters were to be had for twenty-thy cents, and in due time the purchase of his positive in the saleous that high, theters were to be had for twenty-thy cents, and in due time the purchase of his positive in the saleous that high, theters were to be had for twenty-thy cents, and in due time the purchase of his positive wins discovered, however, by the Tion's lifetienants, who soon spotted strange faces.

The Commander of the Toronto Division says: "The Supplement is the best picture I have ever seen produced in connection with Army literature."

Pictorial Contents.

Amongst the Principal Illustrations are:

The front page cover, in two colours, entitled, "The Corps Cadet." This is a decorative panel on which is depicted the pleasing face of a young girl cadet in Army uniform with a handsome floral background composed of Easter lilies and daffodils. A novel and striking cover.

The large two-page picture is a fine reproduction of Sigismund Goetze's great work "He emptied Himself of His glory. It is indeed one of the most powerful representations of the crucifixion we have

Capt. Davis of St. Stephens, N.B., writes: "The supplement plate splendid picture and appeals to me strongly."

A striking portrait of MRS. BRAMWELL BOOTH, which is uper-imposed upon two views of the Women's Social Work, is a picture that will be of interest to many Canadians. It is without doubt the finest portrait of Mrs. Booth that has ever appeared in a Canadian

A striking picture of human interest is that entitled." A Memory of the Past." This is a representation of a prisoner in his cell, gazing into space, wherein he sees a vision of himself when an innocent boy fishing in the creek on the old farm.

Another full-page picture is a reproduction of a striking photograph showing a Japanese Corps of Salvationists, a picture which gives a vivid glimpse at the work of the Army in the land of the Chrysan-

There are numerous smaller sketches and decorations with numerous photographs, amongst which is a series of portraits of some of the world's WAR CRY Editors.

Salvation Songs

Holiness.

Tune .-- My Jesus, 1 love Thee. Oh, boundless salvation, deep ocean of love!
Oh, toundless of mercy, Christ brought from above!
Le whole world redeening, so rich and so free, ow flowing for all men—come, roll over me!

Chorus.

The heavenly gales are blowing, The cleansing sea is flowing, Beneath its waves I'm going, Hallelujah! Pruise the Lord!

O ocean of mercy, oft longing I've stood

On the brink of thy wonderful, lifegiving flood;
Once more I have reached this soul-cleansing sea I will not go back till it rolls over

The tide is now flowing, I'm touchirg the wave,
I hear the loud call of "Thy Mighty to Save;"

Tunes.—Draw me nearer, 225 ;Bel-mont, 24. 2 I want a principle within
Of Jealous, godly fear;
A sensibility of sin,
A pain to feel it near.

Chorus.

Draw me nearer, blessed Lord.

want the first approach to feel Of pride or foud desire; To catch the wandering of my will, And quench the kindling fire.

Quick as the apple of an eye, O God, my conscience make Awake my soul when sin is nigh, "And keep it still awake.

Free and Easy.

Tune. Never mind, go on! B. 4. 72 Juncton State of the state of t Though the war at times may prove distressing, Never mind; go on!

Chorus.

When the road we tread is rough,
Let us bear in mind,
In our Saviour strength enough,
We may always find.
Though the fighting may be tough,
Let our motto be;
"Go on, go on to victory!"

Faithful be, delaying not to follow Where Christ leads, though it may be through sorrow; If the strife should fiercer grow tomorrow

Never mind; go on!
Cheerful be, it will your burdens lighten,
One glad heart will often others brighten;
Though the strife the coward soul may frighten,
Never mind; go on!

Tunes.—Come, comrades, dear, 133; He lives, 138.

Come, comrades, dear, who love the Lord. Who taste the sweets of Jesu's' word.

In Jesu's way go on;
Our troubles and our trials here
Will only make us richer there,
When we arrive at home.

And when we come to dwell above, And all surround the throne of love, Well drink a full supply. Jesus will lead lils soldiers forth To living streams of richest worth, That never will run dry.

Salvation.

Tune.—Death is coming, 131, C and D.; Song Book, No. 130.

Sinners, whither would you wander? wander? Whither would you stray? Oh, remember, life is slender, "I's but a short day.

Death is coming, coming, coming, And the Judgment Day; Hasten, sinner, to the Saviour! Seek the narrow way!

Listen to the invitation,
While He's erying, "Come!"
If you miss this great Salvation, ligh, will be your doom.

Would you scape the awful sentence? From destruction fice!
Seek the Lord by true repentance—Haste to Calwary.

Tunes.—Monmouth, 9, Eb and G:
Song Sweek, No. 319.

6 Dear, Low Sand cost it ever beA shalld wan ashfuned of Thee?
Ashamed of Tee; Whom sangle
praise—

Whose glory shines through endless days?

Ashamed of Jesus? yes, I may When I've no sin to wash away No tears to wipe, no good to c And no immortal soul to save.

Till then—nor is the boasting vain— Till then, I'll boast the Saviour slain;

And Oh, may this my glory be— That Christ is not ashamed of me.
